OUTREACH NOTICE
Biological Science Technician
GS-0404-04/05
Please respond before March 28, 2014

The Pacific Northwest Research Station, Disturbance and Restoration Ecology (DARE) team is recruiting for biological science technician(s) (natural resources) GS-0404-04/05. These temporary positions, which will not exceed 1,039 hours, begin in May or June 2013.

The positions are based in the station’s Corvallis Forestry Sciences Laboratory, Corvallis, Oregon. The incumbent will assist research scientists as a part of an inter-disciplinary team. The projects cover a wide variety of forestry research areas but are primarily focused on the effects of seasonal and prescribed burning on native and invasive plants, ponderosa pine growth, insect infestation, and pine mortality. Successful candidates assume full technical and operational responsibility for study installation, data collection, and data entry.

The work may require extensive travel, walking on rough terrain, climbing steep banks, and traversing ditches and furrows. The work is performed in a forest environment where the terrain may be steep, uneven, rocky, and covered with thick and tangled vegetation. Temperatures may range from very hot and dry, to cool and extremely wet. Rain, snow, wind, or dust may be encountered. The work also requires the use of safety equipment such as boots, gloves, goggles, and hardhats. Employees must always exercise safe work practices. All applicants must be U.S. citizens. Thank you for your interest in this position.

ABOUT THE PACIFIC NORTHWEST RESEARCH STATION:

The PNW Research Station is one of seven research units in the USDA Forest Service. The USDA Forest Service conducts the most extensive and productive program of integrated forestry research in the world. The scientific information produced by the station has application on public, private, and tribal lands in the Pacific Northwest (Alaska, Oregon and Washington) and elsewhere in the United States and other parts of the world. The Station’s programs reflect the changing character of the questions that science is being asked to help answer.

About Corvallis:

Corvallis is nestled in the heart of Oregon’s Willamette Valley. Perfectly placed between the Cascade Mountains and the Oregon coast, Corvallis is known for its tree-lined streets and numerous parks, its historic courthouse, downtown shopping, historic homes, and its Riverfront Commemorative Park, which runs along the Willamette River. The population is just over 53,000 people and is home to Oregon State University. Corvallis is designated a "Bike-Friendly City," and has many miles of bike paths, trails, and roadside bicycle lanes.

If you would like to learn more about the Pacific Northwest Research Station, visit our website at http://www.fs.fed.us/pnw/. More information about the Corvallis area can be obtained by contacting the Corvallis Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1-800-334-8118 or by visiting their website at http://www.visitcorvallis.com.
