The University may release certain directory information to the public on a routine basis unless a student requests, in writing, that the university not release it.

Directory information includes your name, e-mail address, dates of attendance and current class standing, major field(s) of study, degrees, and awards received, including dates and participation in officially recognized activities.

Students withholding directory information will not appear in the published university chancellor's and dean's lists and will have directory information withheld from all University of Alaska campuses.

If you wish the university to keep this information confidential, please check "no" below:

Do you give permission for the University of Alaska to release your directory information?

Yes     No

I understand that if I check "no", a confidentiality flag will be placed on my student records. The university will not release my directory information to any one without an educational need to know, including prospective employers, insurance agents, etc. I understand that a valid photo ID will be required to discuss my student records.
